

Find your own true success at Kelley

Not just a graduate accounting program, but a culture of collaboration and support

Our students tell us all the time: They chose the Kelley School of Business because they have big goals and ambitions. This is where accounting students come to fulfill their dreams.

The Kelley Graduate Accounting Programs at IUPUI not only give you advanced accounting and taxation skills, but we also help you discover your own true success.

At Kelley, you'll learn to identify your interests, understand your strengths, and embrace your weaknesses. These are the insights that will give you a meaningful career.

We know your expectations as an accounting professional extend beyond balance sheets. You're capable of so much more—as a communicator, problem solver, and decision maker.

That's why our plans of study ensure you are well-versed in the technical aspects of your chosen specialty—either accounting or tax—as well as the transformative skills that are needed to become a true leader.

Maximize your potential

The Kelley Graduate Accounting Programs at IUPUI are specifically designed to deliver the knowledge you'll need to successfully sit for the CPA exam.

With advanced classes in audit, tax, and ethics, you'll move beyond introductory concepts and dive deep into case-based learning that cultivates and elevates your critical thinking, problem solving, and analytical abilities—all of which are higher-order thinking skills emphasized on the CPA exam.

“What makes the Kelley School of Business special is how the Graduate Accounting Programs infuse real-life experiences into the classroom,” says Christopher Patterson, MST'16, MSA'17, who received a promotion at Defense Finance and Accounting Services after earning his master's in taxation at Kelley.

“Kelley professors really dig deep and bring out information that you wouldn't normally see on the surface. They've helped me sharpen my analytical skills and have molded me to become much more strategic,” he says.
